

Contributors

Richard Banégas is professor of Political Science at CERI-Sciences Po. He heads the Joint African Studies Program with Columbia University. His previous key research concentrated on democratisation processes in Benin and Uganda and his current projects explore the issues of citizenship, violence and youth mobilisation in West Africa, with a special focus on the Ivory Coast. He recently directed a collective research on 'Street politics in West Africa'. His interests also include the topics of war, crisis resolution and post-conflict reconstruction.
richard.banegas@sciencespo.fr

Irina V. Bolgova – Ph.D. (History), is associate professor at the Chair of applied analysis, MGIMO-University and research fellow in the Center for Post-Soviet Studies, MGIMO-University Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Russia. She is Deputy Editor-in-chief of 'Eastern Europe. Prospects' Quarterly review. Her sphere of scientific interests include European Union politics towards the post-Soviet space and international processes in the post-Soviet space.
irinabolgova@gmail.com

Laetitia Bucaille is an associate professor of sociology at Bordeaux University and an associate researcher at CERI-Sciences Po. She studied conflictual and post-conflictual situations. Her most recent book is Le pardon et la rancoeur. Algérie/France, Afrique du Sud, comment enterrer la guerre?, Payot 2010.
laetitia.bucaille@u-bordeaux.fr

Stephen Chan is Professor of World Politics at the School of Oriental & African Studies, University of London, where he has twice been Dean. He has given the Webb Lectures in Durban, the Chapman Lecture in Auckland, the Levantis Lecture in Nicosia, the Hans Singer Lecture in Bonn, and the Kenyon Institute Lectures in East Jerusalem and Palestine. He won the 2010 International Studies Association accolade, Eminent Scholar in Global Development, and in the same year was awarded the OBE for his work in Africa and higher education.
sc5@soas.ac.uk

Teresa Almeida Cravo is a Lecturer in International Relations at the University of Coimbra and a Researcher at the Centre for Social Studies. She is also currently a Visiting Fellow at the Department of Politics and International Relations at the University of Westminster. She holds a PhD from the University of Cambridge. teresacravo@ces.uc.pt

Élise Féron is a Senior Lecturer in International Conflict Analysis at the Brussels School of International Studies (University of Kent) and a researcher at the Conflict Analysis Research Center (CARC). Her research interests include: communal conflicts, diaspora politics and gender in conflicts. Her most recent book is Abandonner la Violence? Comment l'Irlande du Nord sort du conflit, Paris, Payot, 2011.

e.feron@kent.ac.uk

Maria Raquel Freire is Assistant Professor with 'Agregação' in International Relations at the University of Coimbra and a Researcher at the Centre for Social Studies (CES). She is also currently Vice-Dean of the School of Economics of the University of Coimbra and Coordinator of the Humanities, Migrations and Peace Studies Group at CES. She holds a PhD from the University of Kent at Canterbury. rfreire@fe.uc.pt

Valérie Rosoux is a senior research fellow at the Belgian National Fund for Scientific Research (FNRS). She teaches International Negotiation, and Conflict Transformation at the Université catholique de Louvain (UCL). In 2010–2011, she was a Senior Fellow at the United States Institute of Peace (Washington DC). Valérie Rosoux graduated with a degree in Political Sciences and a degree in Philosophy. She has a PhD in International Relations.
valerie.rosoux@uclouvain.be

Laetitia Spetschinsky is a guest lecturer at the InBev-Baillet Latour Chair on EU-Russian relations at the Université catholique de Louvain. Her research fields are Russian Foreign Policy and EU-Russian relations. In 2011, she published her PhD work under the title Une politique étrangère à l'épreuve de la transition. Contribution à l'étude de la politique russe à l'égard de l'Union européenne (1992–2000), Bruxelles, P.I.E.-Peter Lang, 2011.
laetitia.spetschinsky@uclouvain.be